The Sinharaja Forest Reserve, designated a World Biosphere Reserve in 1978 and 10 years later a World Heritage Site, is the Island's last viable area of primary tropical rainforest.

88.64KM2 might not sound particularly large; however, it is a treasure trove of many rare and endemic species of fauna & flora.

Galle is famously known for the Fort built by the Portuguese and later captured and expanded by the Dutch and British. It still retains some of its colonial charm and some of the buildings have been repurposed into trendy boutiques and cafes.

Located close by is the Hiyare Rainforest Reservoir which hosts 55 species of dragonflies, 12 of which are unique to Hiyare and 78 species of butterflies, 3 of which are endemic to the area and species of freshwater fish, amphibians and mammals.
